

Talking about pictures in books with your child, telling your child what's going on and what is in the pictures will help them when they start to read because it helps them build their vocabulary skills. Vocabulary skills include knowing the names of things, concepts and feelings. Color in this beach picture and then talk about all the different things that are happening in the picture.

